

How the world got fire

- 1. A volcano explodes, village, before volcano - no fire*
- 2. Run in fear away, not everyone escapes, people who are left are devastated*
- 3. Villagers decide to rebuilt further away, realised that the fires started made them warm, so they come up with a way to keep the fire, so people take turns at bringing wood to the fire to keep it going.*
- 4. They warm, they are safe from the volcano past where the lava stops.*

Once upon a time, there was a large island in the Pacific Ocean which had a village on it. The island was usually warm but on really cold days, the villagers were not warm and their food was always cold. Suddenly, one day, the ground began to shake, there was a large explosion and red, burning hot rocks fell on the village. Then, this large red river of fire started running through the village burning the huts.

The people were running away in fear and the volcano rocks blast into peices of lava.

Some people got caught by lava and fire. People were sad because people didn't survive cuz of the huge rocks dischroed the world. the people died .